SUBJECT: Your Security Responsibility

TO: Dependent(s) of _____

1. It is my desire to bring to the attention of the immediate family of all assigned Stony Brook Air Force Station personnel, a situation which has great bearing on the success of our mission at this station, and to request your complete cooperation in meeting this problem. An assignment to Stony Brook Air Force Station carries with it grave responsibilities for safeguarding classified information which may be inadvertently revealed to you. You, as a dependent, are also responsible for helping to maintain the security of this station by complying with the various security regulations, all of which have been issued for the purpose of providing necessary measures to guard against any classified information falling into unauthorized hands and to prevent physical sabotage. The importance of security regarding this station cannot be over-emphasized.

2. Do not discuss official activities of this command with unauthorized persons such as neighbors, friends, etc., as such persons normally do not realize the importance of such information and unintentionally may pass it to others, regardless of the facts involved. This also applies to possible inquisitiveness that may be prompted by irregular duty hours and odd-hour phone calls.

3. During your stay here, it will not take you long to become acquainted with certain facts concerning our mission. These facts, together with loose talk and rumors which are always heard near a military installation, may involve classified information. If or when some of your associates discuss the activities at Stony Brook Air Force Station, warn them of the heavy penalties which may be imposed for the disclosure of classified information respecting this station. If you feel that a person is soliciting information concerning our activities, I request that you immediately notify me or a member of my official staff.
